

Carp

Carp is Marie Otsuka's streamlined take on the humanist sans-serif genre inspired by Excoffon's Antique Olive, where the tops are heavier than the bottom parts of the letter. In Carp, this asymmetric weight balance is exaggerated in the heavier styles, while the lighter styles lean toward a more functional monolinear sans. Complete with a variable width axis, the result is a versatile family suitable for both expressive display and robust body text.

We live in a typographic wonderland. Typographers have more typefaces to choose from than ever before, and computers make setting type easier than ever. The truth is, if you're using a good typesetting application and you just leave the settings on default, you can set type that's more or less adequate. However, good typographers are experts who have something to add to the reading experience. They finely tune the typography for specific documents to make it more than just adequate. In their choice of typefaces and decisions about things like point size and spacing, typographers clarify the voice of the author and make the reading experience more enjoyable. This isn't meant to discourage beginners from attempting typography. But it is important to acknowledge that the art of
